, "The Zionist Jews who run all the big banks and the Federal Reserve need to be run out of this country."I went to the Facebook page and when I mentioned that I am a Jew and resented Jew-haters being with them I was told that since I was a Jew, I could NOT be an American, that I should be deported.When I countered with the fact that I am a third generation American, how dare he suggest that I am not an American. He told me that Jews are loyal to no country, we just sponge off a country until we ruin the economy.I pointed out that Jews are a minority; we are only 14 million in the world or 0.02% of the world's population and in the United States we're not even 2% of the population.The he started talking about how rich we all were and about that time I bowed out and never went back.That was when I stopped supporting the Occupation bunch.I lived in Connecticut where jobs were hard to get, so instead of crying in my beer, I picked myself up, drove across the country to California. My first day there I bought a car, the second day I got a job. The third day I started working. In four months I was assistant manager and by then sixth month, I was the manager.There is a saying: YCDBSOYUA. You can't do business sitting on your asserts. There are jobs out there, but people don't want to do what is necessary to get them. Sometimes you have to move. I have moved even though I had a family. You can retrain. When computers began to be an office necessity I took some courses and learned what I needed to know in order to be eligible to be hired. When things got slow, I opened my own business writing resumes at a reasonable rate and made money hand over fist.Finally, I got a job offer from Microsoft Corp. Had I not prepared myself, do you think there would have been a chance in hell of my getting hired there?People simply refuse to do what they need to get a job nowadays. Remember: YCDBSOYA!
